

Have you ever had an unexplainable urge to scare someone to death as in making them experience their worst fears? Maybe an enemy, frenemy or if you're a really terrible person, your friends? We bet you've tried everything, but it simply doesn't seem to be enough. Many horror experiences lack interaction and immersion. And some things are simply impossible to simulate in real life due to a slight risk of death. It really is a pity... Or is it?

We present to you Hypnagogia! Forget about all those limitations stopping you from giving your loved ones a heart attack and experience a VR horror game that forces the player to face some of the most common phobias in world. Traumatise people today with extreme heights, clowns, and extremely tight spaces! Doesn't that sound wonderful?

No more 2D screens that don't let you fully experience the horrors of extreme danger or panic attacks. Furthermore, it is also an escape room type of game that challenges the player's ability to solve each level logically while making sure they don't pee their pants! Not only that but as previously mentioned, you also get to experience potentially deadly and scarring scenarios without the death part!

For any horror game aficionados or clueless victims out there, our game provides an unforgettable immersive experience for anyone that wants to be scarred for life.

What do you think? Are you brave enough to give it a go? Or would you rather chicken out and traumatise one of your friends instead? Highly recommend the latter.
